The state-of-the-art 13,000 SF showroom and service department for Porsche Dealership and George Gee Automotive was designed to emulate Porsche's signature sleek automotive design. The curved front of the structure is interrupted by a deep setback signifying the entrance to the showroom. The exterior is clad in metal panels and the first floor/showroom is encased in floor to ceiling windows. The interior of the building houses the showroom, service center, a merchandise corner, and reception. The exterior curve of the building is mimicked through the use of a central circular room designed to house the material/finishes selections on the interior with the reception desk wrapping around the exterior.
